

HIGH PRAISE FOR CONGRESS

President Roosevelt Well
Pleased With the Work Done.

Closing Exercises in House Were Sedately Formal But in the House Hilarity Reigned

Washington, July 2.—Promptly at 10 o'clock Saturday night Vice President Fairbanks, in the senate, and Speaker Cannon, in the house, declared the final adjournment of the first session of the Fifty-ninth congress.

There were some interesting features to mark the end which finally came when there was less than a quorum in either house, as many senators and representatives, relying on the belief that the adjournment would come early in the day, made their arrangements to leave in the afternoon, and they did not remain for the closing scenes.

Speaker Cannon rigidly carried out his intention of keeping back the adjournment resolutions until the bills were all passed and signed and the hour for the end was not known until a short time before the gavel fell with the announcement by Vice President Fairbanks in the senate and the speaker of the house that the first session of the Fifty-ninth congress stood adjourned without day.

Both senate and house met early, but a long recess was necessary in the afternoon to enable the enrolling clerks to catch up to the bills that had been passed. The closing scenes in the senate were formal and without interest. In the house there was the usual hilarious performances, consisting of amusing speeches and songs, which occupied the time during the long waits, and members made the best of the hottest day of the season with merriment.

No business of importance aside from completing the pending legislation was transacted in either house during the day.

Just before the adjournment of the senate Senator Nelson took the chair and Senator Blackburn, the minority leader, presented the following resolution:

"The thanks of the senate are hereby tendered to the vice president for the dignified, impartial and courteous manner in which he has presided over its deliberations during the present session."

The Kentucky senator said he took great satisfaction in being able to present the resolution, and he again expressed his appreciation and that of other members of the senate of "the courtesy, efficiency and fairness with which the vice president has discharged the duties of his office." He added that in all the years of his service in the senate he had never known an occupant of the chair who more richly deserved this tribute.

The resolution was adopted unanimously.

President Roosevelt on the adjournment of congress dictated a statement during the session. He says the president's work has done more substantial work along the lines of "real constructive statesmanship" than has been accomplished at any session of congress with which the president is familiar. The text of the president's statement follows:

"In the session that has just closed the congress has done more substantial work for good than any congress has done at any session since I became familiar with public affairs. The legislation has been along the lines of real constructive statesmanship of the most practical and efficient type. No law after bill has been enacted so great that it is fair to say that the enactment of any one of them alone would have made the session memorable; such, for instance, as the railroad rate bill, the meat inspection measure, the pure food bill, the bill for free alcohol in the arts, the consular reform bill, Panama canal legislation, the joint statehood bill and the naturalization bill.

"I certainly have no disposition to blink what there is of evil in our social, industrial or political life of today but it seems to me that the men of genuine patriotism who generally go well to their country, have the right to feel a profound satisfaction in the course of this congress. I would not be afraid to compare its record with that of any previous congress in our history, not alone for the wisdom, but for the disinterested high mindedness which has controlled its action.

"It is noteworthy that not a single measure which the closest scrutiny could warrant us in calling of doubtful propriety has been enacted; and on the other hand no influence of any kind has availed to prevent the enactment of the laws most vitally necessary to the nation at this time."

The Session in Brief.

The work of the first session of the Fifty-ninth congress may be summed up as follows:

Session lasted seven months. Twenty-seven thousand six hundred bills were introduced.

About 4,000 new laws were enacted, 200 of which are public in character.

The appropriations for the session approximate $880,000,000.

RUSHVILLE IS GROWING STEADILY

Much Building Here This Summer—Greater Rushville Developing.

Without any flourish of trumpets or anything in the nature of a boom, Rushville is doing a great amount of building this summer and all of a substantial nature. The noise of construction work is a regular sound in every part of the city and there is hardly a street in which the improvement germ has not spread contagion. Many houses have been started since spring. Some of them pretentious residences, and there are some under way that will represent an investment of several thousand dollars. All are of a nature that adds beauty to the city and substantiality to its growth. The greater Rushville is rapidly developing. It is not a wild guess to say that before the summer ends twenty-five or thirty new houses will represent the growth of the city in 1906

"AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP"

Rev. W. W. Sniff Says it is the Greatest Thing in All the World.

First of a Series of Helpful
Sermons is Delivered
Sunday Evening.

While discussing "American Citizenship," in the first of a series of four evening sermons, relating to public righteousness, to be given during the present month, Rev. W. W. Sniff, pastor of the Main Street Christian church Sunday night, declared that it is the most fortunate thing in the world to be an American citizen.

The minister pointed out the significance of the word citizenship as applicable to the American, compared conditions in this country with those in India and other heathen nations, and told of the many more privileges, blessings and opportunities that are open to the people here than elsewhere in the world.

He explained the social equality that exists in America, calling special attention to the absence of cast in social life.

"America is plainly a child of Providence," Rev. Sniff declared. "I believe that God had something to do with the events that have transpired since this nation was discovered, and that have made it what it is. The country was discovered at an opportune time. The interest of the people at that time was centered upon this part of the world. It was also a time when Martin Luther defied the Catholic church and a new church was born, and it was at a time when the printing press was invented. These three events come close together in point of time and they have done much in the development and progress of this country."

"That America is a child of Providence is evidenced by its colonization. This country was not settled by the French, nor the Catholics nor others, but by the Pilgrim fathers, who landed in the name of God Almighty. The landing of the Pilgrims made America a better nation and citizenship in this land means citizenship in a Christian land."

"But as long as two hundred and fifty thousand saloons are operated under government license, I do not know whether or not this land of ours can reasonably be called a Christian land."

Rev. Sniff said that American citizenship means liberty and equality, the freedom to do right. "Every man's liberty," he said, "is regulated by his neighbors' rights."

"The laboring men have the right to organize," he said, "for the protection of their interests. They have the right to walk out of the shops if differences arise, but they have no right to prevent others from taking their places."

"Capital has the right to organize for the protection of its interests, but it has no right to charge exorbitant prices for the sale of its products."

Rev. Sniff took occasion to rap the meat packers for their disregard for law and decency. He discussed the mental inequality of men and showed how the poor boy has the same opportunity within himself, to make the best of himself as has the rich. He gave Christ's idea of citizenship as being that which makes the strong man lift the weak to his own level of opportunities.

The speaker discussed the sovereignty and the responsibility of the citizen, his character and service and ability, and closed by comparing American citizenship to Roman citizenship, and paying tribute to the American flag, "the most significant flag in all the world."

BIDS FAREWELL TO HIS CHURCH

Rev. P. H. Rowan Closes
His Pastorate in This City.

Big Crowds at All Services
Sunday at St. Mary's Catholic Church.

St. Mary's Catholic church was filled to overflowing at the morning service Sunday by the immense crowd that came to attend the services and to listen to the farewell sermon of Rev. P. H. Rowan.

At this service the new pipe organ that has been placed in the church by the young men of the congregation, was played for the first time. Prof. J. Riley Small presided at the organ and the choir beautifully rendered Brown's Mass. The organ is a sweet toned instrument and certainly is quite an improvement to the church.

Rev. Father Rowan spoke touchingly of his regret to leave the city after his three years pastorate here. He thanked the congregation for their co-operation with him in the spiritual and temporal affairs of the church and he expressed his gratitude to the different societies of the church and asked that the good work be continued.

In conclusion he addressed a few words to the German members of the congregation in their native language.

Preceding the Vesper services at 7:30 o'clock, Mrs. Katherine Johnson Thomas sang a beautiful solo. The choir rendered special music. This service was also attended by a large audience.

Rev. P. H. Rowan leaves this city next Thursday to take charge of St. Joseph's Parish at Evansville. He will be succeeded by Rev. Walter J. Cronin, of Clinton.

Much regret is expressed at the removal of Father Rowan, from this city, but as it comes in the way of promotion best wishes of the community are extended to him in his new field of labor.

CONNERSVILLE GETTING "HER'S"

Traction Men Causing Considerable Trouble There—
Mike Ryan Again.

Saturday's Connerville Examiner says: "A traction man who gave his name as Michael Ryan, created quite a little disturbance on West Fifth street near the Big Four railroad yesterday afternoon, and was landed in jail. The fellow appeared to be a dope fiend and together with a little liquor that he had taken on board, caused him to become very mean and dangerous. He had a razor which he drew on several people and chased them off of the street and was about to take full sway of things when arrested by Officer Gray. This morning he was arraigned in the city court on two charges. One for carrying concealed weapons and the other for drunk. His fine and costs amounted to nearly $27 and being short of funds he went to jail for that many days."

The drunken traction men who caused so much trouble in Rushville of late, have apparently about all left for Connerville, for according to the papers of that city, the police there have been very busy of late, clearing the streets of drunken traction laborers.

Mike Ryan, the fellow mentioned in the Examiner, has, perhaps, given the Rushville police more trouble this summer than any other one man. He has been jailed and heavily fined several times and repeatedly driven out of town.

—Miss Mayme Clark has returned from a short stay at Spiceland.

DEATHS

She leaves two sons and two daughters, besides the husband. The funeral service will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the residence on West First street, conducted by Rev. Tevis. Interment will be in East Hill cemetery.

A dispatch from Richmond to Sunday's Indianapolis Star says: "Mrs. Laura Smith Cook, 57 years old, walked from her home near Rushville to Richmond, a distance of 40 miles, to see her aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Rice, but on arriving here she found that Mrs. Rice had been dead for some time and had been buried. Mrs. Cook had been notified of her illness and had hoped to reach the city before Mrs. Rice's death. As Mrs. Cook had no money she was provided with transportation back home."

BARN TURNED ON FOUNDATION

Wind Does Queer Prank on Weaver Farm Near Raleigh.

A dispatch from Spiceland to Saturday's New Castle Courier. "That a windstorm will do some funny things has again been demonstrated. This time it was at the home of Henry Weaver, south of Spiceland. The storm was seen coming last night and Weaver was in the act of closing up the barn when something resembling a whirlwind of great magnitude struck the barn, lifted it and turned it fully one-quarter round and left the building setting on the foundation without having caused any damage. Weaver was near the barn and in the turning operation, one hand was bruised and his head cut slightly. The stock in the barn escaped uninjured, but were badly frightened."

Weaver is a well known farmer residing in the Raleigh neighborhood which is just south of the north line of Rush county. A number of people called at the Weaver home today to view the prank of the wind, the news having spread rapidly by means of the telephone lines in this district.

BOY IS PAWED TO DEATH BY A HORSE

While Charles Cavanaugh, 14 years old, who had been making his home with James K. Bassett, a farmer, residing two miles west of Shelbyville, was in the haymow of the barn Sunday morning, he fell into a stall under the feet of a vicious young horse. The boy was pawed to death before he could be rescued. His cries brought members of the family to his assistance, but they were too late. Several bones in the boy's body were broken and he was cut and bruised from head to foot. His skull was also fractured.

A CITY PARK IS BADLY NEEDED

Progressive Rushville Should Have a Place for People to Rest.

The fact that Rushville is in need of a public park, where people may enjoy recreation, band and different forms of amusement was most evident yesterday, when there was an exodus of citizens to Indianapolis and other places where the people sought a diversion from the everyday life.

Those people who did not ride on the traction line, took advantage of the excursions, visited their relatives in the country or hired livery rigs for a buggy ride, promenaded the streets, or sought the shade about their homes.

More than one person commented upon the need of a public park, in or near Rushville and expressed the hope that one should be built at some future date.

There is only one side to the park question—the city ought by all means to have a park, a place of recreation and comfort for its citizens, and the people are rapidly becoming of this opinion. If a park is not made now we will all probably live to see the day when the failure to do so will be a matter of general regret. Every city every town should have as many beauty spots as possible, and Rushville should take a step in this direction now.

There are several desirable locations for parks in and around Rushville. The city park could, at a small expense, be equipped with a band stand, benches and other things that contribute to a cool and shady resting place. For a park on a more elaborate scale, with dancing pavilion, figure 8 and other features, for Saturday night use, there are many suitable locations along the traction line, especially east of the city.

Little doubt has been expressed but that a small park here would pay. One gentleman who owns a patch of woods near the city, in discussing the park question, expressed a willingness to build a park if given proper encouragement.

The mare had had but six weeks' work and had stepped the quarter mile in 23 seconds. She was sired by Anderson Wilkes, and her dam was Hamiltonian Tranby. Her dam was the dam of Edit J., 2:14 1/4, and two others in the 2:20 list. The colt was being trained by Clell Maple, who considered her one of the best in his string.

POLITICAL GOSSIP

Early Talk Regarding the Delegates to the Next National Convention.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 2.—Mayor Charles A. Bookwalter of Indianapolis and the Hon. George A. H. Shideler of Marion, who made the race for state chairman last winter are prospective candidates for delegates to the next Republican national convention. Inasmuch as Vice President Fairbanks expects to have a solid delegation of loyal and effective rooters in 1908, the pedigrees of the candidates for delegates will probably be very closely scanned. So far as Bookwalter and Shideler are concerned, neither belong to the rampant Fairbanks brigade. Bookwalter is said to have felt that the vice president was never friendly to his candidacy for mayor, but inasmuch as he won in his last contest, it is believed that he will let bygones be bygones. Whether Shideler has a deep-laid plot all of his own making to get even with the present organization for his defeat in the chairmanship contest is not certain, but the "machine" men will doubtless turn an X-ray on him to determine the matter for themselves. Shideler is not an avowed candidate for delegate now, but when asked recently by one of his friends whether he would run for governor in 1908, he said that he would not, but that he might be a candidate for delegate to the national convention.

The Republicans have made all their congressional nominations except in the Third and Fourth districts, which are now held by the Democrats. These places may not be filled before September, as men will have to be drafted. Owing to the ugly factional quarrel between the Zenor and Cox forces in the Third and the nomination of both men for congress, a number of Republican leaders recently declared themselves as candidates for congress believing it would be impossible for the Democrats to get together. Although Cox and Zenor both still claim the nomination, the Republican leaders have concluded that the trouble will be settled before election and that the Democrats will win as usual. The state organization will declare Cox the candidate of the party, and inasmuch as he has a tremendous personal following throughout the district and was nominated by the regular convention, his name will probably be placed on the ticket in spite of the protest of Congressman Zenor. The latter has been in public office almost continuously since he became a voter, and there is said to be a feeling among the Democrats of his district that it is time for him to retire and not endanger the party ticket next November.

Politicians here pretend to have discovered a plot among the anti-Hanly Republican leaders to cause Fred A. Sims, candidate for secretary of state, and John C. Billheimer, candidate for auditor, to be knifed at the polls. They have been singled out as the governor's favorites and according to information received at the capital, are to be turned down by anti-Hanly Republicans on that account. Sims was never regarded as the Hanly candidate, as he would have been nominated without opposition, even though the governor had not appointed him to succeed Daniel Storms. The governor, however, was very friendly to him and to Billheimer—particularly to the latter, who was one of his lieutenants when he was nominated by the state convention in 1904. When Sherrick was removed Governor Hanly had such confidence in Billheimer that he asked that he be retained as chief deputy. He also helped him in his race for the nomination. The story now being told at the statehouse is that the anti-Hanly Republicans propose to show their dislike for the governor by refusing to vote for Sims and Billheimer.

The congressional race in the First district may be closer than it has been for several years, because the Democrats are now in control of the police force at Evansville, which was formerly a valuable election day asset to the Republicans. The Democrats expect a fairer deal in Evansville and Vanderburg county than they have had for some time, but it is not likely that the change will effect the general result in the district. Cyrus E. Davis of Bloomfield, Democrat, in the Second, has a fairly good chance, as the Democrats always controlled the district prior to the landslide. The Third may be relied on by the Democrats and the Republicans have no chance in the Fourth. In the Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh and Thirteenth, however, the Democrats don't seem to have a good show of electing their congressional candidates, and the Twelfth, formerly Democratic, will be a battleground.

At the recent Democratic state committee meeting the plan of campaign was discussed and arrangements made for appointment of committees in each district to co-operate with district chairmen in perfecting organization.

There is hardly a farmer in the county who did not suffer damage to his house, barn or crops. Eight houses and six barns were unroofed. As nearly as can be learned the storm started when there were two cloudbursts in two different sections, deluging the farm lands, swelling the brooks to overflowing and leaving death and destruction behind. The rainstorm was accompanied by a heavy wind and severe lightning. There were killed by lightning Miss Verda Corbett, Jonas Saxton, Olsen Olgie and Harris Raymond.

AT A SHARP CURVE

TWENTY-THREE KILLED

Passengers From the Steamer New York From Plymouth to London Meet a Shocking Fate.

Salisbury, Eng., July 2.—Driving at a mad pace over the London South-eastern railway, the American line express carrying forty-three of the steamer New York's passengers from Plymouth to London, plunged from the track just after passing the station here at 1:57 o'clock Sunday morning, and mangled to death in its wreckage twenty-three passengers who sailed from New York June 23, and four of the trainmen. Besides those to whom death came speedily, a dozen persons were injured, some of them seriously.

Following is the list of the first cabin passengers dead: Barwick, Walter, of Toronto, Ont.; Cassier, Louis, of Trumbull, Conn.; Cossitt, Frederick H., of New York; Elphicke, Mrs. C. W., Chicago; Harding, Dudley P., New York; Hitchcock, Mrs. L. N., New York; Howieson, Miss Mary F., New York; K. g. Rev. E. L., Toronto; Koch, Frank W., Allentown, Pa.; McDonald, John E., New York; McMeekin, C. F., New York; Pipin, C. A., Toronto; Sentelle, Mrs. E. W., New York; Sentelle, Miss Blanche M., New York; Sentelle, Miss Gertrude M., New York; Smith, Mrs. Walter W., Dayton, Ohio; Smith, Miss Eleanor, Dayton, O.; Smith, Gerard, Dayton, O.; Waite, Mrs. Lillias Hurd, New York.

The following second cabin passengers are dead: Geopinger, Louis, address unobtainable; Keeler, Jules, address unobtainable; Thompson, W. H., address unobtainable. The following are the first cabin passengers injured: Allen, G. H. V., New York; Critchell, Robert S., Chicago; Griswold, Miss I. S., address unobtainable; Hitchcock, Miss M., New York; Koch, Mrs., Allentown, Pa.

The late hour of the New York's arrival at Plymouth saved many lives. She carried more than sixty travelers for London, but many of them elected to travel on comfortably to Southampton in preference to the late landing at Plymouth and the long night ride across the country. If the New York had made a faster passage the roster of the dead and injured would have been longer.

The big American line steamer reached Plymouth at 9:35 o'clock Saturday night and half an hour later there was a tender alongside to receive passengers for England. Several who had planned to debark and packed their baggage decided at the last moment to remain aboard. It was a fateful decision, though not dictated by any fear. The run across the Atlantic had been pleasant. There were cheery partings when the passengers for London transferred to the waiting tender, which steamed for the Devonport landing, where the express was lying, made up.

The train consisted of a powerful express engine, three first-class corridor carriages and one combination guards' van and buffet. The passengers were soon entrained and at 11:30 the express pulled out. It was given a clear track on the run of 230 miles to London, in which the express generally maintains an average speed of a mile a minute.

Driver Rollins quickly gave the engine her head, and the special was soon speeding swiftly through the night. It ran on safely without incident until it entered the railway yard at Salisbury, when the passengers noticed that the coaches began swaying from side to side. Suddenly at the end of the long platform, when the track begins to curve toward the bridge spanning Fisherton street, the engine seemed fairly to leap from the track. It swung across the adjoining track with terrific force and destroyed the guards' van of a milk train that was slowly steaming in the opposite direction, killing a guard. Lurching forward, the locomotive plunged against the standards and girders of the bridge. The bridge withstood the impact, and rebounding, the engine crashed into another engine which was standing on a siding, and overturned. The wreckage of the two engines interlocked in a broken mass of twisted steel. Throughout the wild plunging of the engine Driver Rollins, whether alive or dead, remained in his cab. Hours afterward his charred body was found grilled over the firebox.

The first coach shot over the engine and careened onward until it was hurled against the parapet of the bridge and smashed into fragments, killing or maiming almost every occupant. One man was shot through the window, cleared the parapet and fell to his death in the street below. The second coach lurched forward and rolled toward a stationary train and farm track destroyed itself. The third coach dashed forward with the rest, overturned and collapsed. The guards' van and buffet, the rear most car of the train, was saved by the quickness of Guard Richardson. With the first shock Richardson jumped forward and set the brakes. The van plowed forward, injuring some of its occupants, but practically maintained its equilibrium.

The surviving passengers and trainmen describe the sound of the wreck as like the discharge of a series of heavy guns, and when the crashing of the wreck was past there came calls of the injured, some shrieking with pain and fear and others moaning as if bewildered by the shock. Relief came quickly, although it was an hour before the last body was dragged from the wreck.

TWO DRY CITIES

The Folks on the Kaw Find the "Lid" Nailed Down.

Kansas City, Mo., July 2.—For the first time in their existence, perhaps, all saloons in both the Kansas Cities were closed tight Sunday. On the Missouri side it was the usual Sunday closing that has been carried out for months past by order of Governor Folk. On the Kansas side, where the prohibition law has been openly violated for years, the closing was the result of Governor Hoch's campaign to stop the sale of liquor, not only on the Sabbath, but every other day in the week. Since the Sunday closing law has been in effect on the Missouri side, thirsty thousands have gone to the Kansas side for relief, but yesterday none was in sight. The lid was not only on in Kansas, but it was padlocked. In Kansas in order to emphasize its earnestness in the matter, Assistant Attorney General Trickett had padlocks placed on the doors of all joints.

HIGH PRAISE

The President Gives Senator Beveridge the Credit Due Him.

Washington, July 2.—President Roosevelt has sent the following letter to Senator Beveridge of Indiana, dated Saturday:

"My Dear Senator Beveridge: I send you herewith the pen with which I signed the agricultural bill containing the meat inspection clauses. You were the man who first called my attention to the abuses in the packing houses. You were the legislator who drafted the bill which in its substance now appears in the amendment to the agricultural bill and which will enable us to put a complete stop to the wrongdoing complained of. The pen is worth nothing in itself, but I am glad to send it to you as the expression of my acknowledgement of your services. With all good wishes believe me, Faithfully yours,
"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

The men got out of the rig and the horse broke away running north the length of Main street, turning east, then south on Walnut to the hotel, west on Mill to Water street, south to the Strawberry and then to Sharer's where Miss Lillian Sharer caught it, but it got away and ran south, where it was caught just below Harvey Catt's. Through the efforts of our business men and other enterprising citizens, the first of a series of Saturday night band concerts was given by the Summer band on the public square Saturday night. Although the event had not been advertised many people were on the streets, and the innovation promises to be of much benefit to the town. It is only a few years since Carthage had a band of its own, equipped with the best instruments money could buy. It was thought at the time of its organization that it would be a permanent band, but it proved short lived. However, we are pleased to note that there will be "music in the air."

CAUSE FOR INQUIRY

A Rejected $3,000,000 Item Crept Back Into Sundry Civil Bill.

Washington, July 2.—Public Printer Charles A. Stillings has directed an investigation of the public printing office to ascertain the cause of delay in returning the omnibus public building bill to the senate and whether the public printing office could be held responsible for the retention in the sundry civil bill of the item appropriating $3,000,000 for the purchase of land in Washington for the executive buildings after both houses had voted not to include it.

Mr. Stillings said the printing and bill forces at the printing office had done their full duty. After interviews with Senators Hale and Cullom, Mr. Stillings said the pressure was so great on the enrolling force of congress that it was impossible for the printing office to work faster than it did.

As to the errors in the sundry civil bill, Mr. Stillings said that his information was that the proofreaders had put question marks on the proof containing this item, and that when the proof came back for final printing these question marks had been crossed out, which meant to the printers that the item was to be printed in the bill.

HE GOT HIS CIGAR

Sherman Blake Went Ten Miles for it, but is Happy Now.

Sherman Blake's friends were surprised to see him on the street yesterday, as when he left for his camp a week ago he said that Rushville would know him no more for a month.

His unexpected appearance is explained by the fact that he ran out of Wadsworth Bros' Chicos, and had to come to Thos. W. Lytle's to get another box.

As he expressed it, "camping with out a Chico to smoke is like lemonade without a lemon, and even though I had to come ten miles to get my cigar, I am happy now." While he said this he looked the personification of contentment, letting a long whirl of fragrant Havana smoke float upwards.

Thos. W. Lytle has just received another shipment of Wadsworth Bros. Chicos, and want a'l who like a good cigar, better than most ten cent cigars, to try a Chico, and see how well pleased they will be for half the money, as it retails for a straight five cents.
